

Three Valley artists have exhibit

Three Valley artists, Jackie Carson, Pam Gilbert and Nancy Kravetz, are opening at "The Studio," Yares Gallery Building, Scottsdale, this month. They will share the facility as a working studio and as a sales and exhibit gallery. Though the three artists share a common interest of emphasis on color, all are different in their means of expression. Carson paintings are mostly abstracts on paper and canvas though not all are non-objective acrylics — many depict Arizona's colorful Monument Valley and vast desert scenes.

During the holiday season current exhibitions are tailored to the interests of the whole family. "Twentieth Century American Painting and Sculpture from the Whitney Museum", at Phoenix Art Museum traces the American scene from George Bellows in 1910, to such contemporary artists as Andy Warhol. The exhibit is on view through Jan. 2. Through Jan. 5, "Children and Christmas" (children's clothing from the 19th and 20th centuries) can be seen. Prints by Adja Yunkers of Latvia are at the museum through Jan. 5, and through Jan. 19, an exhibition of picturesque photographs of Jerome, by Anita Hopkins. "Art Deco," selected objects reflecting the designs of the 1920s and 1930s, is on view through Jan. 26.

Art News

"Sculpture II" will continue through Feb. 2.

Scottsdale Artists' League has announced the presentation of scholarships to two Scottsdale Community College students, Ann Minnich and Shirley Lehner. Ann Minnich was a member of the National Honor Society at Coronado High School and recipient of a gold key from the National Scholastic Art Awards. Shirley Lehner received first place in the Community Art Contest while she was attending eighth grade in Phoenix, and third place in the Gerard High School Art Show. She is a graduate of Gerard.

New exhibits in the Valley include works by junior and senior members of Mesa Art League, at Milano Art Gallery, mezzanine, 38 W. Main St., Mesa, through Jan. 9.

The Limner Gallery, new to the Valley, had its introductory opening last Sunday. Located at 7145 Main St., Scottsdale, the gallery shows the works of Louis Bernal, Tom Cosgrove, Nick DeMatties, Louis de Mayo, Elliot Ellentuck, Wayne Enstice, Darlene Goto, Pat Hartleben, Del Holt, Chris Horning, Art Jacobson, Ursula Jacobson, Peter Jagoda, Eric Kronen-gold, Jaye Lawrence, Ed Mell, Lee Mell, Nancy Tokar Miller, Kim Rawdin, Kathy Schooley Robins, Floyd Robins, Bruce Rod, Arlene Scult, Jeff Staggs, Jack Stuler, Karen Truax, Victor Verbalaitis, Jim Waid, Gary Wheeler, Sherrie Zeitlin.

Sage department store, Fifth Ave., Scottsdale.

Tucson — African textiles and jewelry and African sculpture from Arizona Collections are the featured exhibits at Tucson Art Center, 325 W. Franklin St. in Tucson.

Collectors of Americana will have the opportunity of owning an original "cel" from the latest full length Walt Disney animated cartoon, "Robin Hood." A selection of these handpainted drawings on celluloid, which depict the moving characters on screen, have been made available to Arts International Galley, Scottsdale. Original calendar art by Earl MacPherson for Lucky Strike and Brown and Bigelow is on exhibit at P.T.

JACKIE CARSON, PAM GILBERT and NANCY KRAVETZ invite you to the opening of

THE STUDIO

on

Sunday, November 10th

East Studio at Yares Gallery Building

3625 Bishop Lane, Scottsdale

Cocktails

3-7 P.M.

INVITATION TO "THE STUDIO" EXHIBITION AT YARES GALLERY
ON NOVEMBER 10, 1974 IN SCOTTSDALE, ARIZONA